

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

IN HONOR OF MRS. SALLIE LANGSETH FOR HER INDUCTION INTO THE NATIONAL TEACHERS HALL OF FAME, DEER PARK, TX

HON. KEN BENTSEN

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, June 19, 1996

Mr. BENTSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor Mrs. Sallie Langseth of Pasadena, TX, who will be inducted into the National Teachers Hall of Fame in Emporia, KS, on June 22, 1996. She is one of five educators in the country being inducted into the Hall of Fame. It is a particular honor to recognize Mrs. Langseth because she was named Texas' Teacher of the Year in 1995. I cannot think of a more deserving recipient of this award.

Mrs. Langseth is the first teacher from a Texas school district to be inducted into the National Teachers Hall of Fame. Mrs. Langseth taught in the Pasadena School District from 1969 to 1972 and has since taught in the Deer Park School District. She has distinguished herself through her innovative teaching methods and her dedication to her students, and her ability to help them understand problems. Her teaching goes well beyond the classroom, including hosting study groups in her home and tutoring former students who are having difficulty with their college math courses.

Mrs. Langseth's tremendous dedication in serving her students and our community is consistent with the highest degree of professionalism. I join her students, their parents, her colleagues, and our entire community in thanking her for all that she has done for the young people of Pasadena and Deer Park. She truly belongs in the National Teachers Hall of Fame.

TRIBUTE TO HILBERT L. BRADLEY

HON. PETER J. VISCLOSKY

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, June 19, 1996

Mr. VISCLOSKY. Mr. Speaker, it is the belief of many that we are all put on this Earth for a reason. Mr. Hilbert L. Bradley has accomplished his mission in life after spending a lifetime working unselfishly to improve the lives of citizens in the city of Gary, as well as the entire State of Indiana. In a congratulatory celebration, the community of Indiana's First Congressional District will gather on Sunday, June 23, 1996, for a testimonial dinner to honor Hilbert. This dinner will take place at Marquette on the Lagoon in Gary, IN.

As an attorney dedicated to his profession, and a community activist dedicated to the well-being of others, Hilbert has tirelessly led the fight for equal opportunity, and civil and human rights protections for all people. He has provided legal counsel in landmark civil rights cases, as well as pro bono services for the NAACP. Hilbert is a noted trial lawyer and has had a distinguished career as a deputy prosecutor, corporation counsel, and interim judge and mediator.

In 1987, Hilbert founded the Indiana Coalition for Black Judicial Officials, and he serves as the group's general chairman today. The organization's purpose is to increase the number of black judicial officials in the State of Indiana. The Indiana Coalition for Black Judicial Officials organizes statewide public awareness campaigns which have resulted in an increased number of black referees and judges pro tem, the election of a black judge to the Lake County Superior Court, the appointment of Robert Rucker, the first African-American to serve on the Indiana Court of Appeals, Fifth District, and Myra Selby, the first female and the first African-American to serve on the Indiana Supreme Court.

Hilbert also cofounded the Fair Share Organization in 1958. Its purpose was to assure that black people receive their fair share of the fruits of American democracy. One major accomplishment of the organization was the employment of the first black managers of a major chain store, the A&P, in Gary.

Outside of the legal profession, Hilbert has reached out to several civic organizations. Hilbert's distinguished memberships include: lifetime memberships of the NAACP and the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity; the Urban League of Northwest Indiana; St. Timothy Community Church; Calumet Inn of Court; James C. Kimbrough Law Association; the Lake County Bar Association; the Indiana State Bar Association. He also serves as a board member for the Methodist Hospitals.

Moreover, he has received local and national recognition for having excelled in his profession. In 1994, Hilbert received the National NAACP William Ming Award, the Valparaiso University Black Law Students Association Education and Civil Rights Award, the Omega Psi Phi Inc. Citizen of the Year Award, and the Phi Delta Kappa (Beta Mu Chapter) Outstanding Service and Leadership Award. In 1992, Hilbert was inducted into the Steel City Hall of Fame, and, in 1991 and 1958, he received the NAACP Mary White Ovington Award. Hilbert is the only member to whom the Gary branch has twice presented this award. In 1990, Hilbert was presented with the Gary Frontiers Drum Major Award, the Focus 2000 Great Garyite Award, the NAACP Community Service Award, and the Tolleston Community Council Service Award.

As Hilbert reflects back on his career and community activism, he can hold his head high and be proud of his accomplishments. Hilbert is a true role model for all young professionals and citizens. Mr. Speaker, I ask you and my other distinguished colleagues to join me in honoring Hilbert Bradley for his unselfish dedication to make Indiana's First Congressional District, as well as the entire Nation, a better place in which to work and live.

ZACKY COLD STORAGE GROWTH WARMS FRESNO ECONOMY

HON. GEORGE P. RADANOVICH

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, June 19, 1996

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, a major California poultry producer, Zacky Farms, is embarking on an expansion plan in cooperation with the city of Fresno, and I am pleased to bring it to the attention of my colleagues.

Zacky Farms is an engine of economic enterprise in my 19th Congressional District. In sharing the following article from the Fresno Bee, written by business news reporter Sanford Nax, I salute the men and women of Zacky Farms and wish them well as they grow and add value to our community.

[From the Fresno Bee, June 6, 1996]

ZACKY FARMS EXPANSION EXPECTED TO ADD 200 JOBS

(By Sanford Nax)

The latest expansion by Zacky Farms will generate 200 new jobs, with more to come as the poultry producer puts even deeper roots into Fresno.

A 75,000-square-foot addition to its Empire Cold Storage plant at East and California streets will add 13 million pounds of storage.

Also, 5,000 square feet of space is being added to the East Street turkey-processing operation in a related project, said Ken Rutledge, vice president and general manager of Zacky Farms.

Together, the two expansions will increase Zacky's local work force by about 200. The poultry processor employs about 2,400 people in Fresno and is one of the largest private employers in the county.

Many of the turkeys supplied to Zacky are raised in Fresno, Tulare, Kings and Madera counties. California is its largest market.

The expansion of the cold-storage plant should be complete in October. The addition to the turkey processing plant should be done in January.

The projects, which will total about $12 million, are among the $124 million worth of investment Zacky plans to make in Fresno in the next 20 years, Rutledge said.

Zacky operates turkey and chicken plants in Fresno, and the investments could lead to 3,400 new jobs over 20 years, city officials said.

Rutledge said an expanded freezer will enable Zacky to store all of its produce internally rather than contracting some of it out to a public freezer as it now does. The additional 5,000 square feet at the processing plant will allow Zacky to consolidate functions that are divided between two buildings, he said.

The expansions also will make Zacky's operation more energy-efficient and will reduce water consumption. "This new equipment is very efficient," Rutledge said.

Zacky's "grand plan" in Fresno is being accomplished with help from city officials through a development incentive agreements.

In such agreements, companies get a credit for some development fees against the projected increase in tax payments. These
